

Vitae English

Dirk Revenstorf is professor of clinical psychology at the University of Tübingen (Germany) and past president of the German Erickson Society of Clinical Hypnosis (1984-1996). Research Assistant at the Max Planck Inst. of Psychiatry München (1969-79). He has studied abroad (California, Israel) and was full professor at the Universidad de las Americas in Mexico (1995-1997) and is founding member of the German Chinese Academy of Psychotherapy. His training is in behavior therapy, Gestalt therapy, hypnosis, body therapy and statistics and research methodology. He has specialized in the treatment of couples and hypnotherapy. Major research areas are outcome studies in clinical hypnosis and evaluation methodology. He published 200 scientific articles and 20 books on research methods, marital relationship, psychotherapy and hypnosis and received Jean-Piaget-Award der Int. Soc. Hypnosis; Research Award of the American Association of Bodypsychotherapy; Life-time achievement award of the Milton-Erickson-Society Germany.

<http://www.meg-tuebingen.de>

<http://www.paartherapie-akademie.de>